Volume 1 Issue 1

A BIT ABOUT US : wanowandthen.com started life in 1997 as a printed guide to Western Australia. The original printed guide is still available as a free PDF file from our E-Books page but it is no longer updated.

The guide went on-line in 2000 as part of the now defunct westernbelle.com website and was re-born as a site in its own right in 2009.

wanowandthen.com has grown to become the largest resource on the internet dealing with all things West Australian.

We are primarily an educational website aimed at increasing awareness of Western Australian history but we also include information that may be useful to people wanting to visit W.A. and find out about places to go, accommodation and attractions.

For many years the site has been self-funded but in 2013 the cost of maintaining and expanding the site became too much and we have had to start including advertising to help pay for the upkeep of the site.

UPCOMING PROJECT : Our next major project is to visit and photograph as much of the goldfield regions of W.A. as possible.

We are currently in the planning stage of a journey out to Kalgoorlie and then north through the gold-fields to Wiluna. During the trip we hope to capture some of the essence of the area and bring home a lot of photos and footage for inclusion on the site.

AQWA

FEATURE PAGES : There are lots of attractions around Western Australia that are of interest to locals and visitors and in order to help promote the best of these, we are developing feature pages that give information, photos and where possible, a short video that helps to showcase the attraction. We have a number of these pages already available and one that will be available soon is for the Aquarium of Western Australia (AQWA).

AQWA is located in Hillarys Harbour north of Perth and is both an entertaining and educational attraction.
